Susan Lewen Becomes Chief Development Officer at WJCS

Susan Lewen has been promoted to the position of Chief Development Officer, WJCS, effective August 1. In addition to her current development responsibilities, she also will provide leadership and direction for marketing and communications. Lewen joined WJCS as director of development in January 2014.

WJCS is one of the largest non-profit, non-sectarian human services agencies in Westchester, serving 20,000 people annually at 80 clinic, school, community and home-based locations throughout the county. The agency's integrated network of services includes mental health treatment and counseling, child and youth development programs, residential and non-residential programs for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities, home health and geriatric services. The highest level of professional development and training is offered through the WJCS Educational Institute. For more information on WJCS, go to www.wjcs.com.
